three lakh people a day. Those whose third dose would become due in the coming days would receive an SMS from the CoWin system. The beneficiaries won't have to open a fresh CoWin account and their existing one would be used for booking appointments and for receiving a digital vaccination certificate.

While healthcare and frontline workers were the first to receive vaccine doses from January last year, those aged 60 years and above started getting shots from March 2021. The total population in this age group is around 21 lakh, out of which 3.8 lakh have comorbidities. Many, particularly those who received Covishield, are yet to complete the mandatory gap of nine months for the booster dose.

Drunk man beats his paralysed son to death

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

New Delhi: A 30-year-old paralysed man died after getting beaten up with a stick by his inebriated father in northwest Delhi's Bharat Nagar on Sunday. The accused has been arrested.

Police got a call on Sunday at 1.24pm from a hospital that they had admitted one Paramjeet, a resident of Wazirpur, in an unconscious state. "Upon examination, the doctor declared him brought dead. The body was shifted to another hospital for autopsy," said an officer.

The deceased's sister, Rekha, told police that on Sunday morning when she came to her home, Paramjeet was lying injured on the bed. "He told her that on Saturday night his father returned home drunk and beat him up with a wooden stick," added the officer.

Paramjeet got paralysed after a road accident 14 years ago and was bedridden. On Sunday, his sister took him to the hospital, but he was declared brought dead.

On Rekha's statement, a case under IPC Section 302 (murder) was registered at Bharat Nagar police station. "We arrested the accused from his house in Wazirpur. Further investigation is on," said DCP (Northwest) Usha Rangani.

The accused, an alcoholic, told investigators that his son's injuries were not serious. He was not able to give the exact reason for committing the crime. "In the past too, the father and son had got into arguments over household issues. The father, a labourer, was unemployed," the officer said.

Court raps man presenting himself as pauper to avoid paying maintenance to wife

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

New Delhi: A court has pulled up a man, allegedly presenting himself as a "pauper" to avoid paying monthly maintenance to his estranged wife, saying that he was the director of a company that has Indian cricket team captain Virat Kohli as its brand ambassador.

The court was hearing an appeal filed by the man against an order that directed him to pay Rs 30,000 monthly maintenance to his wife.

"This court can take judicial notice of the fact that the brand ambassador of the said brand is Virat Kohli, the Test cricket captain of Team India. Therefore, it looks highly improbable that a company, which is running into great losses (as claimed by the appellant), was in a position to afford a celebrity of such stature for advertisement of its products," said additional sessions judge Anuj Agrawal in the order on January 3.

The wife had filed a case against him under Section 12 of Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act and sought various reliefs besides interim ma-

COURT SAYS

It cannot be believed that a person who was capable of supporting a family by getting married would all of a sudden become devoid of all sources of income intenance. The trial court had granted her monthly maintenance while assessing the man's monthly income to be Rs 1 lakh.

The husband moved the sessions court, saying that he had no income and that he was the director of a loss-making firm. The court, however, found that his company manufactured a product promoted by the cricketer. The sessions court noted that the husband was a "man of means" having a large business and appeared to be "impersonating himself as a pauper" to defeat the "legitimate maintenance claim" of the estranged wife. "It cannot be believed that a person who was capable of supporting a family by getting married would all of a sudden become devoid of all sources of income," it added.
